DANBURY SENATOR
SHARPLY CRITICISES
NEW HAVEN ROAD

Hartford, June 10.—In his remarks before the committee on Public Utilities, Senator Peck of Danbury spoke in past as follows:

"It is not necessary for me to go into the details of this question—they have been covered by others appearing before you at the previous hearings."

"I am also in favor of a commission to fix or supervise or approve about rates in the last few days, and it is not necessary for me to go over the matter again, yet I will refer to the rates on freight, from and to New York, that I am familiar with. I stated the other day, that the rate from Danbury to New York was less than that from New York to Danbury."

"Mr. Chairman, I am also in favor of a commission to supervise service. Some will say that the people of Connecticut are now getting better service under the present management than we were under the old competitive system, and possibly that is true in some instances, and yet I venture to say that if the competitive system had continued until the present time, the service would improve with the increase of traffic, and improvements in methods and mechanical devices, that have come into use. I could cite a number of instances where the service could be and I believe would be improved, if we had a Public Service Commission to hear complaints and investigate, and if necessary could issue orders for improvements."

"The service on the N. H. R. R. is not all that it ought to be. The train out of Hartford is crowded and passengers standing. 5:02 out of New York, passengers standing to New York—Hartford street R. R. Service as expressed by Mayor Hooker is not what the council have now notified the City's prosecuting attorney to take steps to secure better service and sanitary conditions. Bridgeport House Service is said to be poor. The electric light and gas service has received many criticisms."

"And Mr. Chairman, there is no doubt that there are a large number of cases that could be cited. I feel assured, that if your committee should make your way clear to recommend a commission be appointed (and a commission should be appointed) we would find that this commission would be of great benefit to not only the people but to the corporations."

"If I were the manager of a corporation, I know I would rather have a commission of three men representing the State, to settle questions that might arise from time to time, than to have the questions brought to the General Assembly to be settled."

"In regard to Part 3, Sec. 109, that provides for complaints, I would deem it advisable to change, so as to make it possible for any citizen to make complaints directly to the commission."

The Kind You Have Always Bought
Tells Story of
MARVELOUS FLIGHT
THROUGH THE AIR

(Special from United Press.)
Cleveland, June 10.—Carl Fisher, pilot of the balloon Indiana, who landed with his aide, Bumbaugh, in Tennessee Monday, today wired to the Farmer his story of the thrilling ride through the clouds made by the balloon in the trip started on Saturday.

"The Indiana" landed at Rothschin, Tenn., after fourteen hours and twenty-five minutes of continuous flight. Two previous stops for water were made however, as we learned that these stops disqualified us but the cold water, which we were burning up was worth the disqualification. Shooting at the balloon was frequent, commencing in Brown County, Ind., and continuing as we swept across Kentucky and Tennessee. The man with whom we are now stopping told us that he and his son both went after their rifles to see which one could bust it, thinking it was a circus balloon without passengers."

"The winds generally were very poor and we only made way at 12,000 feet. The heat at 10,000 and 12,000 feet was intense as a result of reflection from the snow white clouds. Near Nashville, we had the most thrilling experience of the trip. There seems to be a general current of air over the river which in some peculiar manner is affected by the currents from over the mountains. At any rate while sailing along at 800 feet just after fixing up for our night ride our balloon commenced to spin around and ascend very rapidly. We shot to 14,000 feet and were almost frozen stiff."

"Bumbaugh was unable to figure it out and it was certain to use the valve to stop or upward. Night while vapor gas poured from the appendage and things looked serious. At last at 15,000 feet Bumbaugh opened the valve to prevent the bag from bursting but up she went and then we opened the valve again, which seemed to help. Then we began to descend very slowly. We expected to lose all our ballast to break the fall but it was not necessary as we went down below the edge of the whirlpool without dumping an ounce of ballast. We were beginning to feel better when up she went again and repeated the performance. This time we went clear down, letting out enough gas to drag on the tree tops with our drag ropes and only seven miles from Nashville."

"We had made the circuit of about 24 miles three times. The morning wind from the west finally pulled us out and we were certainly thankful. We had, during the day, two other ascents of the same kind but less spectacular, only taking us up eight and nine thousand feet."

Uses For Fishskin.
The serrated spines of the rayfish are used by the Indians of the Amazon to arm their arrows. Sharks' teeth are used in arming weapons, while the teeth of this and other species are used as trinkets by many peoples. The jaws of the sleeper shark are used for head-dresses by certain of our Indian tribes. The vertebrae of the sharks are also prepared as canes. In Japan the bones of sharks and skates are used in making imitation tortoise shell. In Europe and this country shark and ray skins are employed to smooth and polish substances, while the skin of the thornback is employed by cabinet makers in lieu of sandpaper, than which it is very much more durable. Woodworkers also use the rough skin of the blue dogfish like emery paper for smoothing their work and preparing it for polishing. In India the jawbone of the boalee fish is employed by the natives about Dacca. The teeth, being small, recurved and closely set, act as a fine comb for carding cotton in removing the loose and coarse fibers and all extraneous matters from the cotton wool.

A Lost Language.
A monument to a lost language is to be found in the village of St. Paul, near Penzance, in Cornwall, and it is believed to be the only monument in existence which marks the death of a vanished tongue. It commemorates the death of the last woman who spoke in the Cornish language and was erected by a Frenchman. It is a granite obelisk about seven feet high and is built into the churchyard wall, the front facing the highway, where it is plainly discernible by all who pass that way. The upper part is in the form of a Maltese cross. The inscription reads as follows: "Here lieth interred Dorothy Pentreath, who died in 1777, said to have been the last person who conversed in the ancient Cornish, the peculiar language of this county from the earliest records till it expired in the eighteenth century in this parish of St. Paul."

Courtesy to Women.
A young woman, says a correspondent, who was passing the evening with the family of Lord Coleridge, the eminent English jurist, was about to start for her home at 10 o'clock when he offered to accompany her. She, with the respect due to his age and rank, the fearlessness of youth due to ignorance of the dangers surrounding young women, said: "I thank you, sir, but I do not want to trouble you. Cannot the maid accompany me?" His manner showed the respect in which he held all women. He said, "My dear, the maid is a woman also." If all men were so truly courteous there would be no complaint on the part of women that they do not receive the treatment they should receive from the opposite sex.

When You Put Milk in Tea.
"The scientific justification for adding milk to tea," says the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette, "comes from the facts that the tannic acid contained in tea combines with the albumen of the milk to form tannate of albumen, which is practically leather. By drinking tea alone the coating of the stomach is made leathery. But when milk, which contains albumen, is added the molecules of tannic acid select their affinity of albumen from it, and as a divorce is unknown to tannate of albumen the lining of the stomach is less liable to be affected by the tannic acid than it would be if the tea were taken alone."

A French Custom.
In France a newly married couple do not have the ordinary bride calls made upon them. Instead, garbed in their best and groom pay visits to their best married friends. Imagine a shy woman's embarrassment when she must call upon total strangers—especially if she marries away from her own neighborhood or her husband has a country house in a different quarter.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The First Bicycleist.
Dr. Church of Birmingham was the first person who, in my youth, contrived a bicycle and rode upon it in the town, which excited more consternation than a Southcootean with his beard. He was an able physician, but his harmless innovation cost him his practice. Patients refused to be cured by a doctor who rode a horse which had no head and ate no oats.—Hollywood's "Bygone Worth Remembering."

Working on His Life.
"Well, John," said the eminent personage, who was now an invalid, "who is it wishes to see me now—my biographer?"

"No, your excellency," replied the butler, "your physician."

"Ah, almost the same thing! He's at work upon my life too!"—Philadelphia Press.

Poor Delivery.
Short—Hello, Long! Where are you going? Long—I'm on my way over to the postoffice to register a kick against the miserable delivery service. Short—What's the trouble? Long—Why, that check you promised to mail me ten days ago hasn't reached me yet.—Chicago News.

Remembered Her.
